IFOAM Accredited Certification Bodies as of July 9, 2010.

How to understand the list:

The accredited certification body is the company or organisation whose name precedes the table.

Programme(s) covered by the accreditation: A certification body may operate more than one certification programme. For example it may be certifying organic to a regulation or it may be certifying something other than organic such as "produced without genetically modified organisms". The only programme included in the scope of the IFOAM accreditation is listed here.

Categories included in accreditation scope: The certification body may certify various activities within its organic certification programme. For these activities to be included within the accreditation scope it is necessary that IFOAM has defined in the IFOAM standards or the IFOAM criteria the requirements for carrying out that type of certification. This means that accreditation is possible for the following categories: Certification of crop production, livestock, wild products, processing, fibre processing, aquaculture, input manufacturing, retailing, grower groups and certification transference. If one of these categories is not listed it means the certifier is not currently engaged in that activity or that the activity is still being evaluated by the IOAS. Categories included by the accredited certifier in their organic programme, but which are not covered by IFOAM standards and criteria are therefore not listed here and not included in the accreditation scope.

Not accredited organic certification programme(s): If a certification body operates more than one certification programme, this listing indicates any programmes that are not included in the accreditation scope.

Accredited certification programme logo: The certification mark of the certification programme that is included in the accreditation scope. The IOAS requires this to be distinguishable from other logos or certification marks of the accredited certification body. This distinction may be achieved by addition of the IFOAM Seal.
